Looking for an old code

To quickly find the old code of a finish, simply select "Edit" > "Find" and then type in Old Code followed by a space and by the code of the finish in the appropriate search window.

Example:
search "G2" Old Code

This is how we can filter the results of the search down to the "G2" old code, excluding all non-pertinent results.

Vitrum Arte

Handmade

Skillful craftsmanship is one of the main features of the Italian excellence that makes our industrial products unique.

We contribute to the culture of beauty with Vitrum Arte, an exclusive technique we at Valcucine developed during two years of research and that lets us reproduce designs on glass which are applied manually using an extraordinary inlay technique. To be accomplished, this extremely innovative process still requires the patient and fundamental work of man.

How to consult this documentIndexIntroduction of Vitrum ArteThe MastersGraphic ArtAbstractFigurativePoétique de la RêverieNaturePictogramsThe ProjectsGallery

The technique

Vitrum Arte uses the same wood inlay technique that, over centuries, has produced authentic masterpieces and very fine and admirable handcrafted objects. We at Valcucine revisited the wood inlay technique using modern materials such as glass and coloured film instead.

Just like in the past, we too use the traditional technique that is performed entirely by hand and makes each piece unique.

So that they can be inlaid on glass panels, the original designs are vectorised to obtain plain, even-coloured backgrounds without any differences in shade or transparencies. The designs are cut out from special coloured film and then applied to the tempered glass panels by hand. Any small imperfections in matching the films are proof of the precious manual process employed and of the value of tailor-made production.

Uniqueness

As well as decorating furniture, Vitrum Arte likes to astound you by encouraging you to use your imagination to the full. Valcucine gives you the opportunity to customise your kitchen using various types of designs, including exclusive artworks by famous Masters, Valcucine's own designs and works reflecting the creativity of our customers themselves. Each arrangement becomes a picture, an aesthetic work of art, an exclusive and unique project.

We will show you the various customisation options offered by us on the following pages. They consist of:

► The Masters ► Graphic Art ► Abstract ► Figurative ► Poétique de la Rêverie ► Nature ► Pictograms
 ► The Projects

When you choose a handicraft technique such as inlay on glass you are contributing to creating a greater bond of affection with your kitchen which makes you want to keep it for longer, extending its life-cycle.

! Important: each design can be customised by choosing the colours of the ► Vitrum Arte films
The price - which will be communicated by means of a quotation - may vary depending on the complexity of the design.

The whole arrangement or just a few details

Vitrum Arte can be used to decorate the doors, the end panels and the splashback of a kitchen either to create a 3D effect or to achieve a single, inlaid volume.

You can customise your arrangements as you please: either the whole kitchen or just a few details.

We offer works by:

Alessandro Mendini

He graduated at the Polytechnic University of Milan in 1959. Since the end of the seventies, he has been one of the renovators of Italian design, both in his role of theoretical intellectual and as an authoritative member of the Alchimia group.

Internationally renowned as a refined researcher, he has a totally original approach to building and design objects that is deeply rooted in a space between art and the architectural project. He has a particular interest in the use of colour and boasts a subtle, ongoing irony. From the very start, he has been extremely critical of the consumer society and in constant movement between aspirations coming from, on the one side, literary imagery, and, on the other side, the world full of images, pictures and paintings that has accompanied him since his childhood days.

Alessandro Mendini has received many international accolades.

Sandro Chia

He is one of the most important members of the Italian Transavantgarde movement, together with Francesco Clemente, Mimmo Paladino, Nicola De Maria and Enzo Cucchi. The greatest museums in the world have dedicated numerous exhibitions exclusively to his works of art. He has exhibited his works at the Biennale in Paris, in São Paulo and at various editions of the Biennale in Venice.

Ugo Nespolo

After receiving his diploma in Fine Arts, he went on to get a Master's degree in Italian literature. In the 60s he moved to New York where he was fascinated by the emerging Pop Art movement and by Conceptual art and "Arte Povera" (poor art), frequently visiting these circles. One of the many projects this artist - who worked in various creative fields - was involved in during his artistic career included making short, artistic films. His passion for film-making lead him to found the "Cinema degli Artisti" (The Artists Cinema) with Mario Schifano and to make many films between 1967 and 1968 starring his friends Enrico Baj, Michelangelo Pistoletto and Lucio Fontana. The time spent in the United States, as well as his European Avantgarde heritage, have been fundamental for the development of his artistic poetics, also deeply influenced by the Futuristic movement. He has exhibited his works intensively in art galleries and museums in Italy and all over the world.

The lines developed by Valcucine are geometric marks that do not have the pretence of simulating the letters of the alphabet. Nevertheless, they do add poetry to some parts of the kitchen, establishing a deep bond of unity and participation between the person using the kitchen and the cabinets themselves.

L'enigma del volto (The mystery of the face)

Sandro Chia

In some ancient tribal civilisations, the initiation ceremony that introduced young men to adulthood included making them spend some time by themselves in the jungle, woods or desert until they were able to see faces in nature and in the things surrounding them. The mystery of the face has never ceased to challenge our intelligence and perception, beyond the classic dualism that opposes object to subject and observer to the observed object. The observer and the observed object are bound to continuously switch roles. The paradox lies in the fact that the more one's vision is uninfluenced and primitive and one's perception unclear, the more the observer can actually see beyond appearances. The observer can perceive his own image in a face and turn that face into his own creation. The image of these faces looks at us with a fond, tender gaze and invites us to satisfy our senses and our spirit through the pleasures of Art.

Ipotesi pitagorica (Pythagorean Hypothesis)

*In the first place, it is important to talk about how and to what extend the close relationship between Art and industry benefits from an ancient, vast and very fruitful history.
The quality (and usefulness) of this marriage definitely doesn't need to be theoretically demonstrated.
The history of communication talks about it in great detail.
Valcucine is an extraordinary company that embodies the gifts of the highest industrial quality, paired with the refinement of excellent craftsmanship that together create products full of artistic aesthetic values.
I designed Pythagorean Hypothesis as a tribute to numbers, a long-standing passion of mine. In my opinion, numbers are a topic that involves everyone.*

Italic lace

Maurizio Galante & Tal Lancman

Siena, 1400: these are the place where, and the year in which, the original lace represented by Italic Lace was made. The beautiful pattern of this lace is reinterpreted on glass in a contemporary key. The precious handmade patterns resulting from the skillful handiwork of bygone days communicate an ancient outlook in a modern way. This memory and language are strongly linked to the traditions of this area of Italy.

Tiles

Mohamed Chabarik

Geometric shapes and repetitions are at the basis of one of the most important styles of decorative Arabian and Eastern art. It all starts by overlapping two, simple, geometric shapes: an octagon on the inside and an eight-pointed star on the outside.

By playing with symmetric and intersecting lines many other shapes can be created and appear. It all depends on how you look at them and what your eyes perceive. This is where modernity disrupts the traditional pattern: a continuously-changing module that retains the same roots replaces the decorative module repeated in an identical way all over the surface; fully-decorated surfaces are replaced by ones that also have empty spaces, creating a harmonious rhythm based on contrasts. The challenge lies in looking for and finding new connections that require a lot more attention than the patterns of the past.

Cochlea

Val Ingenium

The history of cutlery and kitchen utensils is represented in orderly disorder. From that which is considered to be the very first piece of cutlery, the spoon (from the Latin word cochlea i.e. shell) portrayed here in red as the ideal starting point for this journey, to the most advanced and contemporary utensils now used in the kitchen. From the knife, initially made of sharp bone or stone and of paramount importance in ancient times because it was the official hunting or fighting weapon, to the more recent kitchen whip whose manual use is considered by many chefs to be the only way to guarantee the fluffy results desired by many recipes. The rolling pin, indispensable to make lasagne, tagliatelle and pizzas, and the slotted spoon - a utensil that has been around since the 6th century to remove food from boiling water or oil - are both included.

Folata di vento (Gust of wind)

Val Ingenium

Multicoloured confetti fall from the sky as if moved by a sudden gust of wind. This design is inspired by the great mosaic art tradition of which Italy boasts many examples. The masterpieces in the “Basilica di San Vitale” in Ravenna, universally renowned as the city of mosaics - contains some of its most famous examples. These artworks have always held me in awe for their surprising light effects and their exceptionally beautiful colours.

La nave dei folli (Ship of fools)

Val Ingenium

Inspiration for this composition comes from the famous painting by Hieronymus Bosch (16th century Dutch painter), i.e. "Ship of Fools".

The "ship of fools" theme used to belong to the folk tradition of northern Europe and is meant to be a satirical representation of the rulers of that time.

The ability to look deeper into things is one of the many ways folly has been interpreted through time: fools see things in our world that so-called normal people neither notice nor understand.

Every culture, whether ancient or modern, archaic or civilised, has its own myths. In Greek mythology, Aphrodite is the goddess of beauty, love, generation and springtime. # Poétique de la Rêverie

The word rêverie doesn't have an exact equivalent in other languages.

It may be thought of as a fantasy linked to a childhood memory. In fact, philosopher Gaston Bachelard says: "in our rêveries about our childhood, all the archetypes that keep mankind firmly rooted in the world, that strengthen the poetic bond between Man and the universe, are somehow revived."

Bachelard goes on to say: "Daydreaming is not the same as emptying one's mind. Rather, it's the gift of a moment that is aware of the fullness of the soul".

Concerto per alberi (The conductor)

Laëtitia Devernay

A design inspired by “The conductor” by Laëtitia Devernay: the magical touch of a young conductor makes the trees come to life and transforms them into a flock of birds flying away. A tribute to nature and to the power of the imagination, a symphony for the eyes thanks to the very original design.

“I find it interesting to represent music using a completely mute book of illustrations. I didn’t want to represent a specific piece of music but a tune in general: a concert for black birds! A flock of birds announces the sound of violins, a single arrangement in a desert sky represents an oboe solo....a whole symphony....After which silence reigns while the little conductor says goodbye. The end of a cycle announces a new one, and the story begins once again....”

Map_Milano

Val Ingenium

- He was a man who must have travelled all over the world, at the very least with his mind. - Jules Verne.
With its simple, direct style reminiscent of the French concept of “rêverie” i.e. daydreaming, dreams and a child’s way of drawing things, “Map” was designed to accompany Logica Celata’s world tour and consists of illustrations created - by hand using Indian ink - specifically for the cities in the world that hosted the exclusive Logica Celata presentation event: from Milan to London, New York to Bangkok, Shenzhen, Paris, Berlin and many more cities. A mini mind-tour is represented here in which interesting anecdotes - concerning culture, fashion, architecture and design - are discovered at every destination.

- He was a man who must have travelled all over the world, at the very least with his mind. - Jules Verne.
With its simple, direct style reminiscent of the French concept of "revèrie" i.e. daydreaming, dreams and a child's way of drawing things, "Map" was designed to accompany Logica Celata's world tour and consists of illustrations created - by hand using Indian ink - specifically for the cities in the world that hosted the exclusive Logica Celata presentation event: from Milan to London, New York to Bangkok, Shenzhen, Paris, Berlin and many more cities. A mini mind-tour is represented here in which interesting anecdotes - concerning culture, fashion, architecture and design - are discovered at every destination.

Valcucine has always followed an ethical and sustainable business model based on research and on a wise use of materials, rejecting the idea of throwaway products and fully embracing circular economy according to which today's products are tomorrow's resources.

Valcucine's commitment to fully respect nature led the company, in 1998, to establish the Bioforest association aimed at promoting a production culture with greater awareness of environmental issues and actively contributing to restoring and protecting natural resources and biodiversity.

Bioforest

Val Ingenium

Valcucine's commitment to fully respect nature led the company, in 1998, to establish the Bioforest association aimed at promoting a production culture with greater awareness of environmental issues and actively contributing to restoring and protecting natural resources and biodiversity. The Otonga Project in Ecuador is one of the outstanding initiatives supported by Bioforest because it protects one of the richest plant and wildlife heritages on Earth. In the high-altitude research station, researchers from all over the world help to discover and classify thousands of hitherto unknown species such as the very brightly-coloured Ecuadorian rainfrog (pristimantis ecuadorensis).

According to the International Union for Conservation of Nature (IUCN) this frog is thought to be at "risk" of extinction because it is scarcely distributed, rare and its habitat is being taken over by agriculture and deforestation.

Tramonto giapponese (Japanese sunset)

Val Ingenium

*Since ancient times the eastern world has attributed spiritual and sacred powers to various natural elements which is why they are worshiped as if they were divinities.
More than in any other country in the world, spring is synonymous of rebirth in Japan and the cherry tree in bloom is its ultimate symbol.
This clearly oriental scene has been designed to transmit serenity, peace and a sense of awe.*

La danza delle foglie (Dancing leaves)

Val Ingenium

*-Leaves float in the air as if lulled by the wind, ready for their last dance... -
This artwork is inspired by the fragment of this poem; a bunch of leaves comes off the branches and traces sinuous movements similar to a dance.
A vast array of greens fills the entire surface, creating a sense of balance and harmony.*

Valensole

Val Ingenium

*Indigo, wisteria, mauve, lilac, purple, violet: these are all shades of purple, the most enigmatic of colours typical of the Provencal landscape of the south of France.
The name refers to the endless fields of lavender in the Valensole, i.e. “sunny valley” upland where, when in bloom, these beautifully-scented flowers transform the French fields into an impressive, really unique and touching sight.*

The very first art form was pictographic and appeared as “primordial images contained in the collective unconscious which brings together experiences of human beings and of the animal life that preceded them and constitutes the symbolic elements of fairy tales, legends and dreams”.

Carl Gustav Jung

Texture

Paolo Celotto

A woodworm. That is, a woodworm that eats into a surface out of necessity, because it's hungry and not for decorative reasons. Hunger and the need to spontaneously leave a continuous, impulsive mark, an improvisation that carries topics dear to us with it: the environment, beauty, culture, innovation, design. This improvisation turns into a climbing plant that crawls all over the surface and leaves its mark as if it were an ancient alphabet.

Graffiti

Man has always felt the need to leave a mark, his personal mark, to tell his own story. The purpose of this story - initially told on cave walls - is not merely decorative but serves to create shared memories and knowledge. The first signs used were not letters but pictograms, i.e. graffiti. By using this ancient form of communication today we can turn the aesthetic of customisation into something “ageless”.

La civiltà contadina (Peasant life)

Paolo Celotto

When talking about peasant life, Ermanno Olmi defined it as “a unique, real, irreplaceable culture that can be defined as complete”. I have drawn simple, almost didactic symbols that talk about the work, pace and seasons of local peasant life - in the area between Veneto and Friuli in Italy - but it has become a story of universal values that revolve around living a symbiotic relationship with nature.

An entangled cascade of ideas - elaborated in the mind to find clever solutions - are birthed and overflow onto a white sheet of paper, expressing the tension behind research and the joy of finding a solution.
